

Does the site list who the author is or what group is sponsoring the site? (If you can't tell, look for a home page link.)

Do the author(s) site their sources? Can you tell where they got their information from?

Look at the address of the site. Does it end in .com, .gov, .edu, .org, .net? Is it a personal page?

Does that clue help you evaluate the site? Explain your opinion. (You can't always judge a web page by its suffix. Some commercial sites provide solid information. Some university sites offer less-than-serious personal pages to college students.)

Does the site have a lot of advertisements? Do you think that this is a problem?
